misrepresentations to accountants pursuant to Exchange Act Rule 13b2-2, 17 C.F.R. §

28

1 2

4

3

5

6

8

7

9 10

11 12

13

14

15 16

17

18

19

20 21

22 23

24

25 26

27

28

On August 5, 2011, Furman filed a Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law (ECF No. 176), and a Motion for New Trial (ECF No. 177).

On August 5, 2001, Furman filed the Motion for Stay of Execution of Judgment. (ECF No. 175). Furman moves pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 62(b) for an order staying "the execution of the civil penalty portion of the Judgment ... while Furman's Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law or Motion for a New Trial ... are pending." Id. at 2. Furman contends:

The Court should grant this Motion because the relevant factors weigh in favor of a stay and Furman is prepared to provide security for plaintiff SEC. In his Post-Judgment Motions, Furman has presented serious questions of law that demonstrate a probability of success on the merits. Absent a stay pending resolution of the Post-Judgment Motions, Furman will be faced with two equally undesirable options: (1) paying the penalty and, should one of his Post-Judgment Motions be granted, potentially being forced to commence proceedings against the SEC for its return, or (2) not paying the penalty and facing an action to enforce the penalty. Both options carry the risk of legal fees exceeding the amount of the penalty. Furman is prepared to provide security by paying the full amount of the penalty into the Court registry. Thus the SEC will not be injured by the stay Furman is seeking, and granting a stay is in the public interest.

(ECF No. 175-1 at 2).

DISCUSSION

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 62(b) states: "On appropriate terms for the opposing party's security, the court may stay the execution of a judgment ... pending disposition of any of the following motions: (1) under Rule 50, for judgment as a matter of law; ... [or] (3) under Rule 59, for a new trial...." Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(b). "[T]he factors regulating the issuance of a stay" are:

(1) whether the stay applicant has made a strong showing that he is likely to succeed on the merits; (2) whether the applicant will be irreparably injured absent a stay; (3) whether issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties interested in the proceeding; and (4) where the public interest lies.

Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 U.S. 770, 776 (1987). The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit applies the Hilton factors by requiring the party seeking a stay to show either (1) "a strong likelihood of success on the merits [of its appeal] and the possibility of irreparable harm," or (2) "that serious legal questions are raised and that the balance of hardships tips sharply in its favor." Golden Gate Rest. Ass'n v. City & County of San Francisco, 512 F.3d 1112, 1115 (9th 2345

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

Cir. 2008) (quotations omitted). These two alternatives "represent two points on a sliding scale in which the required degree of irreparable harm increases as the probability of success decreases." Id. at 1116 (quotation omitted). A court must "consider where the public interest lies separately from and in addition to whether the applicant for stay will be irreparably injured absent a stay." Id. (quotations omitted).

Furman contends that he will be irreparably injured in the absence of a stay because: "Should the Court grant either of these [pending] motions and ultimately rule in Furman's favor, he might then have to commence proceedings against the SEC for return of the amount he paid, and even if successful, the amount returned would have no accrued interest. Moreover, the cost of any such proceedings could approach or exceed the entire amount of the penalty." (ECF No. 175-1 at 5). Furman instead requests that he pay the civil penalty to the Registry of the Court. Under either scenario, a Court order would be required for the funds to be returned to Furman. Furman has failed to show that there is any likelihood that the SEC would fail to obey an order requiring that the money be repaid to Furman. After review of the Motion for Stay of Execution of Judgment, the Court finds that Furman has failed to demonstrate that he will be irreparably injured absent a stay. Cf. SEC v. Platforms Wireless Int'l Corp., No. 04cv2105, 2008 WL 281112, at *9 (S.D. Cal. Jan. 31, 2008) ("Defendants ... ask the court to stay the monetary judgments awarded in connection with both the Rule 10b–5 and § 5 orders" in part because the defendants "claimed that they are in a precarious financial position and are currently unable to satisfy the monetary judgments...."). In the absence of a sufficient showing of "the possibility of irreparable harm," or "that the balance of hardships tips sharply in [Furman's] favor," the Court declines to consider the likelihood of success on the merits of Furman's other pending motions. Golden Gate Rest. Ass'n, 512 F.3d at 1115; cf. Oakland Tribune, Inc. v. Chronicle Pub. Co., Inc., 762 F.2d 1374, 1377 (9th Cir. 1985) (stating in the context of a motion for preliminary injunction: "[P]laintiff must demonstrate that there exists a significant threat of irreparable injury. Because [plaintiff] has not made that minimum showing we need not decide whether it is likely to succeed on the merits.") (citations omitted); see also Arcamuzi v. Continental Air Lines, Inc., 819 F.2d 935, 937 (9th Cir. 1987) (same); Big Country Foods, Inc. v. Bd. of Educ. of Anchorage Sch. Dist., 868 F.2d 1085, 1088 (9th Cir. 2 1989) (same). 3 With respect to the issue of where the public interest lies, Furman contends: IIIt cannot be in the public interest to force a defendant to pay a civil penalty 4 when he has raised serious questions as to whether the SEC has met its burden 5 to prove the claims against him in a fair trial. Nor is it in the public interest to force a defendant absolved of liability to spend additional sums in commencing an action for repayment of the penalty. 6 7 (ECF No. 175-1 at 6). As discussed above, Furman has failed to show any likelihood that the 8 SEC would fail to obey a Court order to return the funds. Given the extensive prior 9 proceedings and the procedural posture of this case, the Court finds that the public interest in 10 punishing Exchange Act violations and deterring future violations would be best served by 11 denying the Motion for Stay of Execution of Judgment. Cf. SEC v. Moran, 944 F. Supp. 286, 12 296 (S.D.N.Y. 1996) ("By enacting the [Securities Enforcement Remedies and Penny Stock 13 Reform Act of 1990], Congress sought to achieve the dual goals of punishment of the 14 individual violator and deterrence of future violations."). 15 CONCLUSION 16 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Motion for Stay of Execution of Judgment is 17 DENIED. (ECF No. 175). 18 DATED: August 11, 2011 19 WILLIAM O. HAYES 20 United States District Judge 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28